Project 07:

Temporal Invitations

For each member of your group, create two sectional perspectives for a selected area of your group's design, expressing two different conditions, e.g. summer and winter, day and evening, market day and rush hour, immediate and long-term, community events, weather events.

Combine efforts as a group on each section.

Work with your teammates to select distinct areas that express the unique and definitive aspects of the design. Use these studies to develop design details.

Focus your design development on details that support the activities that would be taking place during the particular times you are investigating.

Include people engaged in the activities supported in your design.

Show how the details you develop embody the larger strategies of your site and district.
